Increasing productivity while dramatically reducing your time spent researching the capabilities of each new feature.

Our team of experts will review your integrations to determine the impact of the new release updates on your current configuration, while providing insights on additional features that you may want to explore. By categorizing relevant release items for you to review, based on your setup, we will process your transactions to provide you with resources that ensure the new Workday release update does not adversely impact your life cycle processing.

Utilizing our intellectual data processing and refining methodologies, we demystify each bi-annual Workday Release by providing guidance on feature prioritization tailored to your organization's needs, saving your teams hours of internal effort.

Kognitiv also provides a deliverable security audit ranging from condition rules, calculations, custom reports, and business processes to ensure your Workday platform aligns with your overall business goals.

Comprehensive Integrations Review

As a part of this review, a Kognitiv integrations consultant will extract a list of all integrations that have been run from inside PROD within the past year to determine high priority integrations.

Security Assessment

Alerts you on potential issues by comparing current Workday configuration to upcoming Workday Release features (in Preview tenant) to provide insights as to whether new release features will affect existing configuration security setup once live on the new release.

Employee "Life Cycle" Regression Testing

Produced in your Preview Tenant to provide a business process audit history that outlines each step that was completed.

I find the Feature Release Analyzer tool very useful in preparing for Workday releases.

Kognitiv's review, special notes and their recommended action categories are very helpful in determining where my team should focus their immediate attention and those updates that can be reviewed at a later date.
